Now There Are Five

Three J-Council Members Submit Resignation Letters

Three more members of Judicial Council have submitted resignations from the Council to ASMSU President Larry Pettit.

The latest three resignations bring to five the total within the last few weeks, and are the result of a disagreement in policy between members of the Council and Dean of Students Andrew Cogswell.

Members of the Council whose resignations were announced last night at Central Board are Judy Belle Clark, Don Blumfield and Tom Agamenoni.

Blumfield said his resignation

Store Profits May Be Spent On Athletics

Central Board last night formed a committee to investigate the possibility of turning over a portion of the profits of the student store to the administration to repay a loan from a Missoula bank to the athletic department.

The athletic department requested the loan as its funds for the year have been used. Dr. Earl Lory, chairman of the athletic committee, said the loan was needed to remove a deficit of $29,000. Lory said the athletic department would have to cancel all spring sports unless this loan was made possible by offering the student store profits to repay the loan.

The student store's profits are currently about $5,000 a year. A portion of this sum would be used to pay back the loan each year.

The committee appointed by Central Board will meet with Acting President Gordon Castle to decide the portion of the student store profits to be used in repaying the loan. Lory said the bank would have to approve any offer made by the University prior to making the loan.

One possible solution to the problem of limited funds in the future was proposed by ASMSU President Larry Pettit. Pettit said that an increase in student fees of $5 a quarter would eliminate any future deficit.

Central Board told Judicial Council to select a male member of the Council to act as temporary chairman. The post was vacated by the resignation of Clint Grimes last week. The acting chairman will serve until the student body selects a new chairman during spring quarter or rejects the Council by a vote.

Bruce Allan and Phil Barbour were appointed to the "M" Book committee.

French Organist Will Be Featured At Friday Concert

Pierre Cochereau, leading organist at the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris, will be featured in the fifth program of the MSU Music Series Friday evening at 8:15 in the music school Recital Hall.

Luther Richman, Dean of the College of Fine Arts, said Cochereau is known not only as a foremost interpreter of classical literature, but also as one of the outstanding exponents of the art of improvisation. He is famous for his improvisations on themes submitted by the audience.

Cochereau was organist of St. Roch in Paris at the age of 17. He has played recitals throughout Europe and is currently on his second American tour.

The recital is open only to holders of season tickets and out-of-town guests, Richman said.

resulted from "the outcome of the meeting of Judicial Council and Deans Cogswell and Clow."

He said further that he finds it "impossible to put myself in a position where I must enforce ridiculous rules which I can't, nor can anyone else, adhere to."

Blumfield said he did not wish "to serve on a student group which I doubt the students want."

'Refused by Dean'

The reason for Agamenoni's resignation, he said, was that "stipulations which the Council set up in order to continue handling cases were refused by Dean Cogswell."

He said also that he "could not comply to the dean's request that the Council initiate its own cases."

Miss Clark's reasons were similar to those of the two men.

Dean Cogswell last week told the Council it should "initiate" cases; that is, the Council members would be obligated to report violations of University rules which they witnessed.

The dean's position brought the immediate resignation of Council Chairman Clint Grimes, a 24-year-old veteran. Earlier, Robert Brooks had resigned from Council membership because of what he felt were unjust University regulations regarding drinking.

Childs Will Direct MCHS Orchestra In Concert Tonight

The Missoula County High School Orchestra, directed by Gordon Childs, instructor in music at MSU, will perform tonight at 8:30 over station KGVO for the "University Concert Hall" series.

The program will be broadcast simultaneously from the music school Recital Hall.

Included in the program will be the Three Brothers Overture by Cimarosa, the first movement from Schubert's Symphony No. Five, Intermezzo from "Hary Janos" by Zoltan Kodaly, and "Dance Rhythms" by Wallingford Reiger, a contemporary American composer.

Childs said the 43-piece orchestra received a standing ovation from more than 1,000 music educators when it performed for the music educators conference in Seattle Friday. He said the group was acclaimed as the outstanding performing organization at the conference.

The concert broadcast will be open to the public without charge.

Discussion Class Set by Mormons

A study discussion class of the Mormon religion will be sponsored by the Deseret Club next quarter, according to Mike Hodge, president.

A regular instructor will teach the class which will be held on Tuesday and Thursday of each week at noon in the Lodge. A regular course of study on Mormon doctrine will follow. The textbook used will be "The Religion of the Latter-Day Saints" by Lowell L. Bennion.

Interested people are welcomed. Those interested in buying a copy of the book to be used are asked to call LI 9-2432 before March 17. The book will cost $1.80 a copy.

Board Increases Out-of-State Fees By $45 Per Year

The State Board of Education has increased by $45 a year the out-of-state tuition for students at all six units of the Montana university system.

There is no increase in fees for Montana students.

Beginning fall quarter, out-of-state students will pay $80 a quarter as their total out-of-state fees, over and above the regular fees for all students.

The $80 a quarter will include $7.50 in building fees, an increase for non-Montana students which was approved last year. An out-of-state student presently pays $57.50 a quarter in out-of-state fees.

Acting Presidency Is Not Unusual, U History Shows

Those who think the University has been in an unusual situation under an "acting" administration might consult the history of the University presidency.

Dr. Gordon Castle, who will end his term as acting president in August, will have served 15 months by that time.

For two years—from 1915 to 1917—the University was administered by an acting president. There was an acting president from 1943 to 1944. In 1950 to 1951, an acting president was in office for eight months. At other times there were acting presidents for seven months, five months, and once for 15 days.

Of the nine permanent presidents, Charles H. Clapp had the longest term—14 years. The first president, Oscar J. Craig, served for 13 years. Two were in office three years, another two four years, and two more five years. Dr. Carl McFarland, the last permanent president, served for seven years.

Olsen to Speak Here Tomorrow

Arnold Olsen, Helena attorney and former attorney general of Montana, will speak at an open meeting of Young Democrats Club tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the Lodge.

Olsen will discuss the accomplishments and shortcomings of the Montana legislative session which just ended in Helena, he told members of the club.

Dr. Newburn May Find Problems More Mundane Than Academic

The problems of University presidents are sometimes more mundane than academic.

The University's new president, Dr. H. K. Newburn, probably will have as one of his first problems finding a place to live.

The University has a president's house located at 667 East Beckwith, a moderately impressive structure from the outside, but one with some inadequacies within.

Example: The president's house has only two bedrooms. The Newburns' son Michael will make his home here with his parents. That eliminates the possibility of a guest room, unless a basement room is converted into a bedroom as it sometimes is.

Second example: The president's house does not allow for entertainment of any sizable number of guests. Students who attended coffee hours in the house during the presidency of Dr. Carl McFarland will remember this situation.

DR. HARRY K. NEWBURN, University president-elect.

Castle Expresses Enthusiasm On Appointment of Newburn

By TED HULBERT

Acting University President Gordon B. Castle, returning to the campus last night after a two-day meeting with the State Board of Education in Helena, commented enthusiastically on the selection of Dr. H. K. Newburn as the next permanent president.

"I think he is a very well qualified person, both in training and experience. He will fit in well with the campus environment. I've just been reading the statements in the Kaimin by the other administrators (Deans Turner and Lory and Vice President Pantzer) and there's not much more I can say. He's a very capable individual," Castle said.

Dr. Newburn last fall accepted a position with the Ford Foundation as its consultant, making studies of faculty personnel policies in state universities. During the last few months, he has visited campuses and conferred with administrators and faculty members.

Personnel Experience

His office during the short-term position with the foundation has been in Ann Arbor, Mich., the Newburns' home. From that office he has made two-week visits to the schools studied. His study has covered personnel practices, recruitment and appointment, faculty welfare and retirement and other matters.

Prior to the Ford Foundation position, Dr. Newburn was president of the Educational Television and Radio Center in Ann Arbor, and held that position beginning in 1953. He previously served as president of the University of Oregon for eight years.

Radio-TV Position

At the time of his resignation from the ETRC presidency, Dr. Newburn said, "When I agreed to come with the Center for a five-year period, I also emphasized my desire eventually to return to university administration." He asked to be relieved of his duties heading the television and radio center effective last September, and shortly afterward accepted the Ford Foundation position.

Newburn plans to be on campus early in April, probably close to April 6 and 7.

He will begin his duties here on a part time basis July 1, and will take the position full-time Aug. 15.

Newburn's inauguration will probably be in middle or late fall, depending on his own desire and arrangements for the elaborate event. Inauguration ceremonies vary from campus to campus, sometimes lasting two or three days and in some instances for one day only.

Representatives of other major universities are usually invited; the ceremonies sometime include an address by one of the new president's close friends and an address by the president himself, and banquets.

Timely Appointment

The appointment of a permanent University president came at an appropriate time. After a year of dissension on campus, there are definite signs that the factions within the University are beginning to break apart, that wounds are beginning to heal.

This realization probably came at about the time the University's budget was cut (along with those of other units) and when reports of the University's bad reputation in some parts of the state began to hit home.

The news of Dr. H. K. Newburn's appointment brought favorable reactions on campus yesterday, reactions which probably have their origin in the realization that it's time to stop fighting against one another.

There is every indication that Dr. Newburn has the qualities desirable in a university president. Given a chance, he can undoubtedly help a sick University to heal its wounds.

It should be realized that Dr. Newburn will need more than verbal support.

Faculty members must realize that it is he who has been hired as the chief administrator of the University and that he should be given an opportunity to administrate. A faculty voice in University affairs is sometimes confused with faculty rule. Faculty rule in itself is not a bad thing, except that too many faculty members regard themselves as ruler.

Dr. Newburn has expressed a desire to cooperate with all members of the University community and with other educators to effect the best education possible in Montana. This will be no easy job, especially in view of the appropriation for the coming biennium; the new president faces a handicap before he even arrives on campus.

Dr. Newburn's task will be infinitely easier if students and faculty forget the past, seeking to avoid mistakes which have been made once already and holding the University's welfare above personal interests.

Little Man on Campus

By Dick Bibler

"SO YOU FLUNK MY COURSE — I UNDERSTAND YOU'RE GOING TO GET AN 'A' IN DRAMATICS!"

Against Blaming Game Officials

To the Kaimin:

Let's give the officials a break. No game can be played fairly without them, and in most cases, they enforce the rules of the game with no interest in which team wins or loses. All officials in any organized conference are duly qualified and experienced.

Of course, officials make mistakes, we all do. The possibility of two men officiating ten men in a game as fast as basketball and not making any mistakes is very unlikely. I challenge anyone to call a perfect game in any sport.

It is quite disconcerting to this student when the officials are blamed for the loss of a game. In just about all cases, the distribution of enforcement of violations against both teams is about equal. It would be much wiser to inspect the offense and defense percentages before attempting to determine the cause of the loss.

I say again, let's give the officials a break! The players are expected to conduct themselves in a sportsman-like manner, and we as spectators should be expected to do the same.

Du Mas Says All Must Work Together for Good of U

To the Kaimin:

This is the first letter I have written to the Kaimin. In my five years on the faculty, I cannot recall having ever spoken at faculty meetings or given a speech on campus involving politics. Many of my friends have prevailed upon me to break my five years of silence in order to still certain rumors. I should like to state that:

1. Mr. Ken Neils wrote the 'Neils Report'. I did not write one single word of it.

2. I did not "launch into an attack on student panel members" at the Eagles Club. On the contrary, I was the first to congratulate Prof. Hansen and his students for their fine performance. I was invited to attend by a Legionnaire; the great majority of those in the audience can attest to the propriety of my behavior on that occasion.

3. I do not believe that my behavior is or has been "less admirable" than Mr. Fiedler's behavior.

I do not always agree with the educational objectives, teaching methods, attitudes or values of some of my colleagues. Nevertheless, I feel that the furore here must end soon or our University will surely suffer more than it already has.

For myself, I believe that Governor Hugo Aronson, Attorney General Forrest Anderson, Superintendent Harriet Miller and members of the State Board of Education are sincere public servants who are trying to get things back on an even keel as soon as possible.

It is important that all of us—students, faculty, public servants, alumni, other citizens—work together for the good of our University.

Statistics Show Team's Weakness

Cox Scouts Kansas High School Tourney

Basketball Coach Frosty Cox left after the Wyoming game for a scouting tour of the high school tournaments in the midwest and northwest. He plans to see the Kansas high school tourney this week, while frosh coach Hal Sherbeck and the Grizzlies football staff will scout the Montana tournaments.

Ending the basketball season in fifth place sounds much worse than statistics show the Grizzlies were.

For instance, the Grizzlies lost four of their Skyline games by a combined score of 12 points—to Denver twice, Utah and Utah State. One or two games like that can be expected during a season. But there seems to be something missing that could be corrected when it happens four times.

With the two wins last weekend, the team ended with a 7-7 .500 average. Last year it tied for fifth place, with an 8-6 record, while the year before that it finished third with 9-5.

"It was a rather inconsistent season, yet a very satisfying one in many respects," coach Frosty Cox said. "In our final seven games of the season we averaged nearly 80 points a game. The squad in no way resembled the green batch of players that started the season for us."

The top Grizzly scorer for the season was Dan Balko, who picked up 390 points in 24 contests. Terry Screnar was the next in line with 266. Both men will be with the team next year. Balko is a junior, Screnar a sophomore.

If anything is missing next year, it will be height—19 feet and 7 inches of the team will not be with the Grizzlies next year—Shelby, 6-8, Suttles 6-6, and Dunham 6-3. The tallest man the team can count on at this time for next year is Ruegsegger, 6-6, with Land's 6-4 next.

Cox ended the season with a 199-134 record for his career. He can look forward to next year, when he will gain his 200th victory.

Renning Signs Pro Contract

Stan "The Ram" Renning, Montana's All-Skyline football guard, said today that he has signed a professional football contract with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian league.

Renning will report to the Eskimo camp July 1. He commented he was happy that Edmonton was close to his home in Great Falls. He felt he had a better chance of making the grade with the Canadian club:

Guard Stan Renning, after a successful amateur career at Montana State University, signed with the Edmonton Eskimos in the Canadian league.

"You don't have to weigh 250 pounds to play ball in that league. The emphasis is on conditioning and mobility. 'That's why I am particularly happy to have signed a contract with the Eskimos and I am looking forward to playing with them this fall.'"

Renning, a 205-pound interior lineman, will probably be an inside linebacker in the Edmonton 5-4-2 defensive strategy and will play his normal offensive guard position on the attack.

"I think it's a tremendous opportunity for Stan, and we certainly wish him all the luck in the world," football Coach Ray Jenkins said. Jenkins felt that Renning was the greatest lineman he had ever coached, and he said that Renning has "all the ability necessary to become a truly fine professional player."

WRA general elections will be held today in the Lodge. Only women with WRA participation points may vote. Polls close at 5:30.

Coach Wallace Sees Progress In Swimming Team's Future

Swimming Coach Bud Wallace feels that the Grizzly tankmen will be progressively stronger in the next two years. Wallace made this prediction after his sophomore-laden tankmen made the best showing of any University swim team in recent years by taking fourth place in the Skyline swimming meet this past weekend.

Sophomore Ivan Jacobsen established Skyline records in his specialty—the 100 and 200-yard butterfly. Other members of the team did an exceptional job in compiling Montana's highest Skyline swimming total of 47 points, especially when it is remembered that the Grizzlies had only eight members on their team.

The most exciting feature, from the spectators viewpoint, was Montana's thrilling victory over the powerful Wyoming team in the final event of the meet—the 400-yard medley relay.

Backstroker Doug James and breaststroker Wayne Veeneman kept even during their eight laps. Record-holder Ivan Jacobsen added a yard or two and then Bob McKinnon showed his ability by doing a fast 100 yards for a Montana win.

"All in all I think we turned in some top performances, and our sophomores should really shine in the next two or three years," Wallace said. Freestyler John Rider is the only senior on the squad.

Wallace also said he was trying to acquire a California Junior College transfer who holds three national AAU butterfly records.

Pulitzer Prize Winning Editor Is Visiting J-School Professor

Lauren K. Soth, 1956 Pulitzer Prize winner for distinguished editorial writing, has been named the Dean Stone Visiting Professor of Journalism for the spring term.

Soth, 48, editor of the editorial pages of the Des Moines Register, will replace Professor Frederick T. C. Yu, who is on a one-year leave of absence under a Ford Foundation Fellowship.

Soth will teach the senior seminar and editorial writing courses and assist in two reporting and news editing courses.

He was awarded a bachelor of science degree in journalism in 1932 and a master of science in agricultural economics in 1938 at

LAUREN K. SOTH

Iowa State College. He took part in the Okinawa campaign and was awarded a Bronze Star while serving in the Army from 1942 to 1946.

In 1946, he returned to Iowa State College and in 1947 became an editorial writer for the Des Moines Register. He was named editor of the editorial pages in 1954.

His Pulitzer Prize-winning editorial suggested exchange visits between American and Soviet agricultural delegations. As a result, 12 American agricultural experts inspected farms in the Soviet Union during the summer of 1955 with Soth the only newspaperman among them. He visited England, Denmark, the Netherlands, Germany, Greece, Turkey, Italy and France in 1951 as one of six editors studying economic recovery in Europe.

His book, "Farm Trouble", was published by the Princeton University Press in 1957 and he has written numerous articles on farm problems for periodicals.

Soth will be the third Dean Stone Visiting Professor of Journalism. Alan Barth, editorial writer for the Washington Post and Times Herald and this year a visiting professor in political science at the University of California at Berkeley, was the first to be named in 1957. Houston Waring, editor of the Littleton (Colo.) Independent, was a member of the journalism staff for the 1958 fall term.

History Honors Section Interviews Slated Friday

Dr. Jules Karlin will interview prospective candidates for the honors section in History 203 from 9 a.m. to noon in his office Friday. He will also interview candidates the first morning of registration.

The honors section will be run on a discussion basis dealing with problems in American history since 1890 to the present. Discussion will include the New Deal, World War II, segregation and the Supreme Court.

The class will meet Monday through Friday, excluding Wednesday, at 8 a.m. in J 306.
